On behalf of the Local Organization Committee, it is both my pleasure and honour to invite you to the 25th international Electromagnetic Induction Workshops (EMIW2022), the premier event of the EM geophysics community and IAGA Division VI. The 25th Workshop will be held on 11-17 September 2022 in Çeşme by academic institutions and companies from Turkey, represented by a local organising committee (LOC). The University of Ankara is responsible for coordinating the workshop arrangements. This EM Workshop will be the second to be organised in Turkey after 42 years; the 5th EM Workshop, held in 1980, was organised by Istanbul University.

The EMIW2022 at Çeşme will provide an excellent opportunity for scientists, researchers, students, and representatives from numerous industry sectors and public institutions to exchange and discuss the latest developments in EM methodology and technology.

The workshop location Çeşme is a Mediterranean seaside resort on the Aegean Sea. The name 'Çeşme' means 'fountain' and comes from many wells dating back to the Ottoman period. The workshop venue is located on the Aegean coast with a beach. The province has some important locations for scientists, particularly the EM community.

In ancient times, the region was called Ionia and contributed to world history in various ways. It was the main gateway for the migration of the first farmers to Europe from 9000 BC during the Neolithic revolution. The largest and most populous Hellenistic and Roman cities were founded in Ionia. Ephesus was the most important center for the rise of Christianity. St. Paul lived in Ephesus from 52 to 54 AD, working with the congregation and organizing missionary work in the hinterlands. Emperor Justinian I had the Basilica of St. John built in the 6th century AD. The ancient city of Miletus is the home of Thales, Anaximander and Anaximenes, the most famous Miletus natural scientists of the classical period. In 582 BC, Thales predicted the solar eclipse and established new theories in astronomy and geometry. Anaximander and Anaximenes formulated the first scientific rule: "A sufficient reason for a natural phenomenon exists in nature". However, they assumed it is possible to reach objective reality through knowledge alone without experimentation. The word "magnet" comes from the ancient city of Magnesia. The first standard coin (the invention of money) was minted in Sardis about 650 BC.

EMIW2022 participants will have the opportunity to visit Ephesus and other exciting sites such as the Temple of Artemis, the Basilica of St. John and the Museum of Ephesus. The excursion route follows the Menderes River, which flows in a series of twists and turns. The term 'meander' is derived from the Menderes River.

Finally, I would like to inform you that the workshop's theme is 'virtue', personified by the statue of the ancient goddess Arete found at the Celsus Library in Ephesus. Aristotle describes 'Arete' as making the best of one's own capabilities and potentials. Three other statues accompany Arete in the niches of the Celsus Library: Sophia, Episteme and Ennoia, symbolizing wisdom, knowledge and intelligence, respectively. These are the values that illuminate the path of scholars.

Hope to see you in Çeşme, in September 2022.
Prof. Dr. Ahmet T. Başokur, Chair of LOC

CONGRESS INFORMATION

The research activities of IAGA Division VI (www.emiw.org, Electromagnetic Induction in the Earth and Planetary Bodies) involve the investigation of all theoretical and practical aspects of the spatial distribution of electrical properties within the Earth's and planetary interiors, and particularly electrical conductivity, and their relationship with physical parameters considered in seismology, rheology, petrology, hydrology, volcanology, etc., Studies are applied to elucidate geological structures and processes ranging from meter to mantle scale. The number of members of the division exceeds 500. The international Electromagnetic (EM) Induction Workshops are an important event for both the international research community and for many sectors of industry and government that use EM methods for geothermal, mining, petroleum and energy exploration, groundwater and environmental resource evaluation, geohazard monitoring such as GIC (Geomagnetically Induced Currents in technological systems) and many other fields. The workshop as a whole is suitable as well for graduate students and junior scientists.

IAGA, (<http://www.iaga-aiga.org>) the International Association of Geomagnetism and Aeronomy is one of the eight Associations of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics (IUGG). It is a non-governmental body funded through the subscriptions paid to IUGG by its Member Countries.

IUGG, (<http://www.iugg.org>) is the international organization dedicated to advancing, promoting, and communicating knowledge of the Earth system, its space environment, and the dynamical processes causing change.
